Ihobe International has established over 10 years within the dust suppression and road stabilization industry. Our constant commitment to improving our product proves most beneficial to both our client's operational costs as well as the environment.

Our product – Profit Science Liquid is a high performance, zero VOC, waterborne acrylic emulsion copolymer that offers an environmentally friendly advanced option unlike the traditional acrylic copolymers. Profit Science Liquid is a hydrophobic, biodegradable dust suppression solution with high abrasion resistance and improved water & alkali resistance.

We offer an effective dust control program due to it being essential to keeping roads driveable and safe, and when implemented can offer numerous benefits, including;

Improved Roads.

When dust is present, so is deterioration. Dust's fine particles are not able to serve as binding agents to hold road surfaces together. The result is exposed and unstable aggregate that erodes with every passing vehicle or rainfall, producing ruts and potholes. Profit Science Liquid binds fine particles and aggregate so roads remain packed, hard, durable, smooth and most importantly safe.

Decreased Maintenance Costs.

Improved roads mean less need for repair and that means cost savings in labor and materials. Effective dust control can reduce the overall cost of keeping unpaved roads in acceptable condition by up to 30% if not more.

Improved Safety Standards.

Road dust can also impair visibility, cause reduction in traction and extend stopping distances as tires fight to grip the loose dirt or gravel. Controlling the dust improves these conditions and thus the safety of motorists and pedestrians alike.

Environmental Concerns.

By controlling the dust, fine particles are prevented from becoming airborne and causing health issues or damaging crops and vegetation. A reduction in airborne dust particles means you're breathing fresher air and thus are less likely to experience respiratory and other health problems related to dust inhalation allowing for a higher quality of life.

Our vision and goal to make the world a better place, our concern for the environment and the planet along with our drive for success and innovation is the platform from which we base our company.

KSB CALLS FOR JOINT EFFORTS TO TREAT COASTAL WASTE

The collaborative contribution of neighbouring businesses to establish industrial effluent treatment plants in coastal areas can contribute towards the reduction of harmful pollutants entering our oceans.

Businesses in the manufacturing, industrial and mining sectors, which contribute the most to industrial effluent being pumped into our oceans, would benefit from a co-operative effort with the government as well as other stakeholders to start working towards a workable solution.

Addressing the challenge of industrial effluent entering our oceans, German pump and valve manufacturer, KSB Pumps and Valves, suggest forming partnerships that will ensure better quality management of industrial effluent being discharged by various industries specifically those operating near the coastal environment.

Stricter control

"There are a number of rules and regulations that businesses operating in the South Africa's coastal regions have to adhere to in terms of discharging industrial effluent produced during manufacturing, processing and production. These businesses also have to keep in mind that despite being permitted to discharge in our oceans, being environmentally sensitive is a key part of this exercise."

"The regulations stipulate amongst other things that businesses have to be mindful of the surf zone and estuaries which form part of ecologically sensitive areas in which discharge of effluent of an unacceptable quality can have negative impacts which may ultimately cause degradation with adverse effects economically, socially and ecologically.

"It should also be noted that coastal areas are popular holiday and tourist destinations which need to have water that should be of a high quality to obtain and maintain Blue Flag Status for our beaches which impacts directly not only on the ecological aspect but also economically," explains Hugo du Plessis, KSB senior project engineer.

Providing a holistic solution

Hugo continues to explain that KSB has already initiated endeavours on a global scale with German and European banks and investors that specifically target countries who would like to improve their water and wastewater infrastructure.

"As KSB, we would love to get involved in projects like this as we also want to improve the condition of our oceans and rivers and it will be a huge benefit not just for the environment but also for the end-users as they could re-use the treated industrial effluent in their plants and thus also save on water usage," said Hugo.

The idea is to target those areas where industrial effluent is freely dumped into the ocean – under legislation – and facilitate measures where these international banks and investors become involved to lend funds to the end-users to build industrial effluent plants. In these projects there will be engineering consultants appointed and KSB will be extensively involved in the design of the related pump and valve applications.

Working together

"We have met with the potential funders on numerous occasions and they have indicated an interest to collaborate on projects that will initiate businesses and municipalities to start implementing changes in the process of their discharge of industrial effluent. In the near future the international team working on this project would meet with the end-users in South Africa namely, businesses and municipalities and start the process of possible funding for new projects or upgrades to existing infrastructure, concludes Hugo.

Ammann ARS 122
Soil compactor

AMMANN SOIL COMPACTOR OFFERS HIGH VALUE WITH EFFICIENCY

ELB Equipment, one of South Africa's largest compaction machine suppliers, offers clients the Ammann ARS 122 soil compactor, an industry leader in compaction efficiency.

"The Ammann ARS 122 soil compactor provides outstanding productivity and reliability. The powerful engine and heavy-duty hydrostatic drive of the wheels ensures great traction and travel performance at lower operating cost. The roller is suitable for compaction of a wide range of soil, from silt to crushed stones," explained Keon Kardolus, ELB Equipment, earthmoving and construction sales manager. He adds that due to the compactor utilising Ammann's effective vibratory system, with varied amplitude settings as well as energy being driven into the material and away from the operator; the Swiss manufacturer has ensured the ARS 122 outdoes its competitors on the field.

"This compactor offers operators hydraulic propulsion of wheels with independent hydro motors (and no axles). Furthermore, there is a low centre of gravity for stability and manoeuvrability and better ground clearance," adds Keon.

Other key features of the Ammann ARS 122 include the clear dashboard layout which enables easy and safe operation. The compactor also has a fully isolated operator platform for maximum comfort. With the rising cost of fuel, another notable feature is the compactor's fuel efficiency due to the highly durable Cummins engine. In terms of time saving, the compactor has easily accessible maintenance points. "The Ammann ARS 122 offers clients a wide variety of applications medium to large job sites. These can include transport construction such as motorways, railways as well as airfields. For applications in construction, the compactor can be used in industrial zones as well as harbours. It is suitable for compaction of all kinds of soils and wet mixes," explained Keon.

Standard equipment included with the Ammann ARS 122 soil compactor are:

- Drum and wheel propel system
- Operator platform with guard rails
- Lockable dashboard with Vandal guard
- Smooth drum
- Manual tilting of hood / cab / platform
- Working head lights front and rear
- Engine air pre-cleaner

Optional items which can be added:

- ACE (Ammann Compaction Expert)
- Ammann Traction Optimizer (ATO)
- Working speed increase kit
- Tractor tyres
- Bio-degradable hydraulic oil
- Bolt on pad-foot shell kit
- Airconditioning (Cab)
- Rollover protection structure (ROPS) with or without hard canopy

EIGHTFOLD SURGE IN PROFITS IN 2020 SEES SHUMANI CLINCH MAJOR BUSINESS AWARD

Shumani Industrial Equipment receives 2021 Goscor Business Unit of the Year Award

23 June 2022: An eightfold surge in profits during 2020, the height of the Covid-19 lockdown in South Africa, has seen Shumani Industrial Equipment awarded the 2021 Goscor Business Unit of the Year Award. Outstanding new equipment forklift sales, combined with a large contribution from the expanded rental equipment fleet, resulted in the exceptional results.

Now the largest black-owned and managed industrial equipment supplier in South Africa, Shumani is an appointed dealer for all Goscor Group companies that import industrial equipment for the local market. It supplies world-class equipment across the breadth of the industrial and construction sectors.

Brands on offer include world-leading names like Bendi, Crown, Kalmar, and Doosan in the forklift market. Construction equipment brands include Bobcat, Sany, HPower, Weima, Luthian, Ozen and Sullair. In the cleaning equipment market segment, Shumani offers Tennant, Genie, Sentinel and HighPoint.

Most of the equipment supplied by Shumani is used in the stores and logistics departments of both construction and mining companies. "We offer some exciting brands in the construction and mining sectors like Sany and Bobcat. Our Crown forklift is the leading electric brand, which is tested and has proved resilient in the market," says Shumani MD Victor Nemukula.

"Our key offering remains forklifts, which will lead the way in terms of growth. We think there is still a lot of scope for Shumani in the market, as we offer a one-stop shop. We believe the construction and mining sectors will offer ongoing support as we expand further," says Nemukula.

Bud Industrial CEO Neil Wilson, Shumani MD Victor Nemukula and Shumani Operations Director Shaun Morton.

While Shumani is currently headquartered in Gauteng, it has seen growth in Durban over the past two years. "We believe that supplying materials-handling equipment for port operations is the next growth area for us," reveals Nemukula. Hence it has established a regional office with highly skilled personnel and is on the lookout for new premises as it continues to expand in KwaZulu-Natal. At present, Shumani supplies port equipment to Transnet Freight Rail and Transnet Port Operations on a short-term rental basis.

"We are gratified at receiving the 2021 Goscor Business Unit of the Year Award. We were able to show significant growth and retain our existing customers during this difficult period. More recently, we have also been able to diversify the business by making inroads into the port-handling, mining, and construction sectors, among others," concludes Nemukula.

MINING'S ONGOING CULTURE CHALLENGE AND HOW IT AFFECTS YOUR OUTPUT

By Arjen de Bruin, Managing Director at OIM Consulting

It was the late Peter Drucker – one of the most revered thinkers on management and leadership – who succinctly said, “Culture eats strategy for breakfast.”

Drucker, who maintained that business leaders need to wholeheartedly embrace a spirit of performance, was a strong proponent of the link between organisational culture, leadership style and workplace productivity. And certainly, in our experience as a consultancy that specialises in front-line leader capability within the mining sector, the impact that leadership has on culture – and ultimately on output – becomes evident the minute you step foot inside a mine.

This theory is reiterated and reinforced by countless human resource research studies. In the South African mining sector specifically, one paper on the impact of organisational culture on gold mining activities in the Free State region concluded that “an organisation’s culture has a crucial impact on its overall performance. Culture determines which human behaviours will be reinforced, the extent to which people work positively or constructively together, and the way in which decisions are made. It also affects the manner in which an organisation processes information, the way it responds to external demands and constraints, and the motivation of its employees.” It should come as no surprise that culture is largely driven by leadership, which filters down into just about every aspect of a company. Another study published by the South African Journal of Human Resource Management that looked at organisational culture, frontline supervisory engagement and accountability in a platinum mine determined one of the key drivers of employee engagement to be an environment where an employee has agency over the decisions he makes and takes accountability for these actions. “Employees who experience high levels of micromanagement exhibit active disengagement and an attitude of ‘I just do what I’m told, and it is not my fault if anything goes wrong.’ It goes on to state that “In South Africa, mining organisations are still very hierarchical, authoritative and autocratic, and as such, it is likely that employees, particularly supervision and frontline workers, experience micromanagement during their daily routines.” In the mines we work with, we find that this autocratic leadership style that seems to go hand-in-hand with the sector breeds a state of fear, distrust, uncertainty and general inconsistency. This results in a ‘blaming’ mindset, where staff members avoid accountability for failure or error by shifting responsibility to another party. This leads to what we call a constant state of ‘fire-fighting’, where a significant portion of potentially productive hours is spent trying to resolve issues, rather than proactively preventing them from occurring in the first place. So how do we solve what we call mining’s ‘Culture Challenge’ by teaching our leaders how to embrace and cultivate a culture that inspires trust, buy-in and supports productivity? Ultimately, we can measure leadership by three things: output, productivity and employee engagement. OIM Consulting’s ‘flywheel’ culture and leadership model is based on more than four decades worth of experience and study, while each spoke in the wheel is anchored in the ideals of inspiring trust and honouring people; foundational elements of elite performance. The flywheel model itself is a five-step process that acts as a roadmap for organisations, with each step following the other in a logical progression, with a focus on strategy and direction; stakeholder alignment to create buy-in and clarity; leadership benchmark-setting; execution; and finally process excellence, which includes ongoing review and refinement. Once results are achieved, we maintain that the next time is even simpler. In short, with each rotation around the flywheel, it gets easier to inspire trust, clarify purpose, create direction, drive alignment, build vitality, execute with excellence and produce extraordinary results – momentum built from that wheel-turning effect! In conclusion, I always look to another famous Drucker quote, “Only three things happen naturally in organisations: friction, confusion and underperformance. Everything else requires leadership.” In other words, we can expect that things will go wrong – but it is up to us as leaders to foster an environment that breeds excellence.
